

will not be -

close to hand

closer moved →

ed + drum alt is not dis

and to political reasons

D A M M N

gentleman will be okay returned to neutral area -

others with him

negotiations -

- enter neutral territory

- can receive over

Sees Blue & white light

not much sun light

Barry the unbr

Aug 88

May will buy significant journal of another man.

May time frame is crucial (Aug 88) neutral letter.

(in ten forms 12)

W/

st

A/W

Trees

X
Beirut
3KS south

no

Justice Freedom

brown hair

medium - built

not tall / not short

light features

brown hair

red uniform

blue & brown

dream or night

very young - entered mill area with ashtray

brown hair brown eyes - lens drawn - not

- smiling - serious

long pointed nose

plus someone needed they were no - lots of Abaki

present physical condition

fragile

mental - not yet

Fracture

- Body condition

- bones

- Fragile skin

- Cold

- Old apparatus

Contribution - society

science - humanitarian

american (*)

interaction →

Person

two year olds

freedom +

special - project -
man - high ideas

for muller a plan of policy
to help all

~~Physical~~ Bodyprint

- Probandant
- Ethnic

Locate

Hidden -

Her remains ^{Wait} hidden

no fault of his own

Middle-East

Dry Thinned Climate

dark skin people -

high level

- not dead

- needed to be kept a live

live on

olive trees - (Peace)

Beirut (big)

Somewhere

30-50 mile radius

of that City - megaton

not in use - kept near an old temple

from a S tree -

- Tail is dark purple and results from old dirty street robe is an alley

- Cross Beary gold and white dots

Get the men

gold & white stone -

gentleman is spotted / deep recurs his help

- Shute

name of Prea can be recalled

- Turntail middle a much more poi fighting

from poi tumors

Approved For Release 2001/03/07 : CIA-RDP96-00789R003400580003-9

Said to Take Over Hostages

Approved For Release 2001/03/07 : CIA-RDP96-00789R003400580003-9

Iran Vetoed Deal for German Captive, Militia Official Says

By Nora Boustany
Special to The Washington Post

BEIRUT, Jan. 19—Church of England envoy Terry Waite, who was kidnaped one year ago, and other Western hostages are now in the hands of Iranian Revolutionary Guards based here, and the Tehran government has banned further intervention by Lebanese groups in negotiations for their release, according to a senior Shiite militia official.

Waite and some of the 23 other Western hostages are believed to have been seized by pro-Iranian Shiite fundamentalists here. But the sources said the captors were freed three weeks ago after Tehran decided to halt any more mediation in the hostage crisis by local Shiite and armed groups, according to the Moslem militia official, usually well-informed on Tehran's latest directives. Its operatives in Beirut, expect that all future handling of the affairs would be carried out in states—that is, between the governments of the United States and Iran.

At the start of the year, most Western captives have been held in the custody of Iranian Revolutionary Guards to prevent Lebanese groups, families or interlocutors from reaching agreements that are not strictly beneficial to Iran, according to Druze and Shiite Moslem militia sources.

In the final week of December, the sources said, Iran stepped in at the last minute and thwarted

"The envoy in charge of the negotiations left for Bonn and that was the end of it."

—a Shiite militia source chances for a possible release of West German hostage Rudolf Cordes and American journalist Terry Anderson.

A deal had been set to free Cordes in exchange for TWA hijacking suspect Mohammed Ali Hamadel, a ransom of $3 million and proof to the captors that 17 Shiite activists held in Kuwait on bombing charges were still alive and in good health, according to the sources. Anderson, the Beirut bureau chief of The Associated Press, was reportedly next in line to be released, the sources added.

On learning about the deal to free Cordes, Iran contacted its men here and said there would be no deal unless Bonn supplied it with material for manufacturing chemical weapons, arms and other technology. "The envoy in charge of the negotiations left for Bonn and that was the end of it," the militia source said.

Cordes, 53, a representative for the Frankfurt-based Hoechst chemicals company, was abducted by gunmen on the road to Beirut International Airport on Jan. 17 last year, a few days after arriving in Lebanon.

Three days later, Waite, 48, disappeared after leaving his Druze bodyguards outside the offices of a Shiite Lebanese doctor before heading for a meeting with the captors of two Americans.

Druze chieftain Walid Jumblatt said in an interview last weekend that he was still trying to find out whether it was possible to release Waite.

Since his kidnaping one year ago, Waite has been accused by his pur-

TERRY WAITE
... kidnaped a year ago

ported captors to have been working for the U.S. government, despite denials by Washington and by Waite's employer Archbishop of Canterbury Robert Runcie.

To those who remember him at the Riviera Hotel where he stayed, Waite was a strange mixture of a humanitarian and a risk-taker who seemed bound to get into trouble.

"He wanted to show off, taking walks along the Corniche ... and parading in convoys of cars bristling with guns. He was really saying, 'I am Terry Waite. If you want me, you know where I am, coming and going,'" recalled the manager of a seafront hotel.

Not 20 Jan 88

ENCL

CPYRGHT